Philosophy

As a teacher it is my job to use various teaching methods to meet the needs of diverse learners. I understand that students' educational experiences are formed by many different facets of their lives as well as their ability levels. I feel that differences among students are important and believe that we can all learn from them. I believe education is essential for future success and consider it a part of my role as an educator to put emphasis on the value of education to students and their families. I think there is no skill more critical for lifelong learning than seeking and using information well.

24 years of experience in M.C.S.D.

Teaching at Blanchard since 1996.
